

Para entender desde criancinha

Exposição no MAM usa obras de Lawrence Weiner, Amílcar de Castro e outros para descomplicar a arte contemporânea

A mostra "Arte para crianças", em curta de quarta-feira no Museu de Arte Moderna (MAM), é destinada ao público infantil. Mas também não é. Com obras de importantes artistas da cena contemporânea, a exposição pretende mostrar que, de fato, a arte não tem idade.

—Arte não tem gênero e pode ser apreciada em qualquer idade. Acreditamos que as crianças têm plena capacidade de ter experiências artísticas complexas como qualquer adulto. As vozes, até mesmo o olhar delas é mais generoso, mais aberto, porque seu aparato de linguagem ainda está sendo construído — explica o curador da exposição, Evandro Salles.

Entre as obras estão esculturas de Amílcar de Castro, instalações de Ernesto Neto e

Lawrence Weiner também participa da mostra, acompanhado de Yoko Ono, no filme de convidados estrangeiros.

A pluralidade de técnicas é uma das principais características da mostra, que reúne de silogranuras a instalações, passando por pinturas e vídeos, como o desenho animado inspirado em poesias de Manoel de Barros e o curta "Xilópaga caplares entre nós", de Evandro Salles, baseado na obra de Tunga.

"Xilópaga caplares entre nós", vídeo dirigido por Evandro Salles e Tunga

George Kossuth. O autor, com 100 obras de arte de 1960 a 1990, tem uma obra em exposição no MAM.
